

KeTech Modern Slavery Act 2015 Statement

This Statement is intended to apply to KeTech Enterprises Limited and all its' subsidiary companies within the KeTech group of companies.

KeTech specialises in communication, information and detection technologies. As innovators and integrators of engineered solutions, developers of intelligent telecommunications software and suppliers of detection products, KeTech works across a range of vertical markets including transport, industrial, security, public sector and detection nationally and internationally.

Through its dealings in such markets, KeTech recognises the responsibility it shares with its' suppliers to buy and sell products in an ethical manner. KeTech acknowledges the measures introduced into UK law by virtue of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and the requirement for organisations to take appropriate and proportionate action in order to minimise the risk of slavery and human trafficking occurring in their businesses or supply chains and to promote supply chain transparency.

As part of KeTech's commitment to supply chain transparency, KeTech has devised a Modern Slavery Act 2015 policy which sets out how its' employees, suppliers, agents and other service providers are required to act in order to minimise the risk of modern slavery and human trafficking occurring in its business and supply chains.

In addition, KeTech adopts a risk-based approach to conducting due diligence and audits on the service providers within its' supply chains in order to further reduce the risk of modern slavery occurring in its business. KeTech's response to any perceived areas of additional risk is to implement specific measures in respect of the relevant service provider(s), as appropriate, in addition to its' usual practice of reviewing information currently held on its' supply chain and requesting additional information about goods/services supplied where necessary.

This Modern Slavery Act 2015 Statement will be reviewed annually or sooner if there are changes in legislation that affect its content.
